THERE is no reason to doubt the sincerity of Colonel Nasser's declaration, made on the eve of his 18-day State visit to the Soviet Union, that the visit does not mean he is leaning towards the East, and that his policy is dictated by neither the East nor the West. His assertion that this policy derives exclusively from the interests of the United Arab Republic also sounds unexceptionable. Yet such declarations, made at every opportunity ever since Nasser finally plunged the Middle East into the Cold War three years ago, show a remarkable lack of judgment, by shifting the emphasis from the sphere of Soviet policy to the sphere of Arab policy, where it rightfully belongs, onto the less concrete one of his own objectives. Nasser is in fact making the United Arab Republic a pawn in the hands of his group of ex-officers who are making use of the Soviet Union, and not the other way round.

THE real truth is that the Soviet leaders have long since abandoned, though of course only temporarily, the idea of introducing regular Communist regimes in the Middle East. All they seem to want now is to make trouble for the West in an area where its interests are very real, and which is "destined to play a leading strategic role in any future East-West conflict. No matter who is willing to help in this design, either orthodox Communist, "bourgeois nationalist," or a reactionary feudalist, his services are welcomed and his reward assured.

ONCE all vestiges of Western influence are wiped out, there will be ample opportunity for the United Arab Republic to become an unreliable ally. There is reason to believe that the "liberated" Arab nationalist leaders do, on their part, realize that the alliance is a very uneasy one and that their position is fraught with grave danger, danger that is made all the more acute by their movements' lack of ideology of its own. It is obvious, and logical that the ideological vacuum created by the banning of political parties in both Egypt and Syria will be conveniently filled by Communism.

BUT it is not logic that informs Nasser's actions. Rather, it is a combination of exaggerated pride and confidence and reckless adventurism. His pride is the creation of feelings of resentment created by generations of foreign domination, while the adventurist strain was increased by Nasser's realization that, with the growing influence of the Afro-Asian bloc in the U.N. and Russia's assured backing, no action of his, however outrageous, could be answered effectively. Confidence has led the so-called liberated Arabs to some absurd propositions, of which their flirtation with the Soviet Union is not the most absurd. Samples: Arab nationalism has been offered the West "peaceful co-existence," an Arab writer has predicted that after Europe has been annihilated the Arab world will become the only refuge for human thought; Akram Hourani, the Ba'ath leader, has declared that the coming struggle will be waged between Arab Nationalism and International Communism.

Tito Warns Russia: Won't Alter Policies

LJUBLJANA, Saturday.—President Tito warned the Soviet Union today that Yugoslavia will not change its policies "only a waste of time and is harmful for all of us."

The Yugoslav leader said Soviet bloc press attacks on Yugoslavia "and unfair talk about Yugoslavia" in some Socialist countries "do not offer any optimistic prospects for our future relations."

Addressing a closing session of the Congress of the Yugoslav League of Communists here, Marshal Tito declared, "We should like to solve our differences with the Soviet Union in a different manner in future, in a more comradely manner."

Observers saw in Marshal Tito's speech an indication that he was giving Moscow an opportunity to call off an ideological war and to pave the way for talks between the two sides.

Divergent Views

Earlier, the Congress voted unanimously to accept a new party program reflecting sharp ideological differences with Moscow. The Congress officials announced they were not ready to present a final draft and the 1,800 delegates voted permission for it to be produced by a special body next month.

On Friday, Foreign Minister Koca Popovic warned the Soviet Union that Yugoslavia would refuse to make "rotten compromises" on existing differences between the two countries.

Speaking to the Foreign Affairs Commission of the Congress, Mr. Popovic said Yugoslavia did not have any obligation "to give support in advance to all actions of the Soviet Union."

Voroshilov Coming

At a press reception earlier, the Foreign Minister said today that there has been no change in plans to invite the Soviet President, Kliment Voroshilov, to Yugoslavia next month. He said final arrangements for the visit already have been made.

In Bonn, Mr. Anastas Mikoyan, Soviet First Deputy Premier, said last night that relations between Moscow and Yugoslavia were "very good."

Mr. Mikoyan said the differences between the parties would gradually disappear.

Last night an official Yugoslav spokesman denied an Italian news agency report, quoting information from a source in Bonn, that there had been an attempt to assassinate President Tito. (Reuter, UP)

Ein Hashlosha Man Wounded By Mine

A member of Kibbutz Ein Hashlosha, opposite the Gaza Strip, was seriously wounded on Friday morning when a mine inside Israel territory, northeast of the settlement, the Army spokesman announced.

The wounded man, Shmuel Kraos, was given first aid treatment and a blood transfusion by a group of U.N. Observers stationed nearby who immediately went to his assistance.

Investigation on the spot revealed that the mine was a mine of plastic design. The road on which it was sown is in daily use.

Egypt Seeks $20m. Loan From Bonn

The Egyptian Finance Minister, Abdul Munim Kaissouni, left Cairo for Bonn yesterday at the head of an economic delegation to conduct talks aimed at obtaining a $20m. loan from West Germany, the Arab News Agency reported.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said that economic negotiations between Egyptian and Czech delegations were opened in the Egyptian capital yesterday.

AFTER MIDNIGHT

Soviet trade with Egypt has increased by about 10 times over the past four years, an official statement released by Moscow Radio stated last night, adding that half of Egypt's wheat and oil imports in the past year had been supplied by Russia.

Festive Observance in World Capitals of 10th Anniversary

A crowded week of celebration in honour of Israel's Tenth Anniversary ended in Washington last night with a formal dinner given by Ambassador and Mrs. Abba Eban at their residence, with the Secretary of State and Mrs. Dulles as guests of honour.

In addition, the guests and their ladies included leading figures in diplomacy, Congress, labour, journalism, and industry.

Among them were the French Ambassador, M. Hervé Alphand, the Australian Ambassador, Mr. Howard Beale, Senator William F. Knowland, Senator Stuart Symington, the Labour leader, Mr. George Meany, Mr. Ogden Reid, Jr., the publisher of the "New York Herald-Tribune," Mr. Jacob Blaustein, former President of the American Jewish Committee, and Mrs. Alben Barkley, widow of the former Vice-President, and Congresswoman Frances P. Bolton.

London Mass Meeting

London's Albert Hall saw a mass meeting attended by 1,500 persons. Mr. Herbert Morrison recalled three previous visits to Israel and said each time he had been more delighted, inspired, and pleased with what he had seen. He did not believe any human being with ideals could come back from Israel without feeling he had seen something of the possibilities open to human development.

Lord Balfour recalled Jewish contributions in every sphere of international life. He said Israel is capable of withstanding any attack from her immediate neighbours, but what if an attack were fostered and supported by a great power? He hoped that the future fate of Israel would not depend upon a trial of strength between the two great power blocs.

In Moscow, the Israeli Ambassador, Mr. Yosef Aviad, gave a reception at the Israeli Embassy attended by senior Soviet Government officials, as well as heads of foreign diplomatic missions.

Pleven Submits New Proposal For Algeria

PARIS, Saturday.—M. René Pleven, middle-of-the-road politician who is trying to solve France's latest Cabinet crisis, will tomorrow submit his "Charter for Algeria" to all party leaders for final agreement.

The Near Radical leader believes parties should agree on how to handle Algeria rather than face the prospect of another short-lived Government.

According to his aides, his Algerian policy is based on three principles: advocating no secession, independence, or internationalization. But at the same time he would seek means of solving the problem by talks with "those really responsible for the war in Algeria."

To satisfy right-wing sentiment here, he would drop the Anglo-American "good offices" mission and enter into direct contact with President Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia.

In Rabat, Moroccan and Tunisian nationalist leaders were reported today to favour creation of a "North African" negotiating committee with France on settling the Algerian war. There was strong talk that such a proposal might be creation of a "North African" unity conference opening in Tangiers tomorrow among Algerian rebel chiefs and official leaders from Morocco and Tunisia.

Informed sources said the Moroccans and Tunisians hope to exert a "moderate" influence on delegates from the Algerian National Liberation Front. (Reuter, UP)

CAIRO, Saturday (Reuter).—The United Nations Emergency Force yesterday announced that two soldiers of the force had died in accidents. They are a Canadian, Ian Sawyer, who was the victim of a road accident on April 22, and a Brazilian, Raimundo Moreira Freitas, who was accidentally shot on April 24.

No Accord on Sea Limits

GENEVA, Saturday (UP).—The U.N. conference on the Law of the Sea failed by just seven votes to reach a definitive agreement on the breadth of the territorial sea here last night.

Its plenary session took a final vote on four proposals, after a two-hour debate cut short by the drastic "guillotine" rules adopted yesterday to prevent further filibustering such as has plagued earlier debates on the subject.

The U.S. compromise proposal, for a six-mile territorial sea plus a six-mile exclusive fishing zone within which existing fisheries would be protected, got a sizable majority of 45-33 with 11 abstentions, but failed to reach two-thirds as required for the plenary and was therefore declared "not adopted."

The Canadian proposal for a 12-mile exclusive fishing zone, which had been adopted earlier in committee without including any territorial sea, also failed of adoption in the plenary. It got 28-30 with 20 abstentions.

"Not adopted" either was a new compromise proposal for a 12-mile maximum territorial sea along with a 12-mile exclusive fishing zone.

USSR Compromise Seen On Pre-Summit Parleys

UK to Proceed with Tests May Propose Poles, Czechs

LONDON, Saturday.—Prime Minister Macmillan said yesterday that Britain would carry out its planned spring H-bomb tests in the central Pacific despite pressure from the Socialists to cancel them.

The announcement followed by day a two-line Admiralty announcement, shipbuilders declaring a 37,000 square mile danger area around Christmas Island, starting today.

Mr. Macmillan made it plain that the new series was designed to test nuclear warheads for rockets as opposed to bombs carried by planes.

"So far we have had four megaton explosions in our current series," he said. "We have learned a great deal from three tests, but by no means all we want. Without further knowledge, we cannot be sure that the theoretical calculations of our scientists are right on certain scientific problems. The solution of these is essential for our future weapons programme as the means of delivery changes from the bomber to the rocket."

Would be Handicapped

Mr. Macmillan said Britain would be "tightly handicapped" in the future without the knowledge gained from the tests.

"I therefore intend, as long as I have the support of the House, to carry on with these tests, unless and until other international agreements make them unnecessary," he said.

In Tokyo today, the Japanese Government protested against the decision to stage the tests. In a note to the British Minister.

At the U.N. Headquarters in New York yesterday, Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld handed invitations to witness a U.S. nuclear test to representatives of 14 member nations of the U.N. Scientific Committee on the effects of atomic radiation.

The committee is composed of scientists named by Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Brazil, Canada, Czechoslovakia, France, India, Japan, Mexico, Sweden, the Soviet Union, the United Arab Republic, Britain and the U.S.

The scientists will arrive at the proving ground about a week before the explosion is due, in July or early August. (UP, Reuter)

In the Supreme Court
Sitting at Court of Criminal Appeal
Before the President (Justice Oshanan), Justices Silberg and Gossens
The Attorney General Y.
Elihu Ziti, (Cr. A. 43/58)
On appeal from the District
Court of Jerusalem
Should Be Denied

The Supreme Court dismissed an appeal against a verdict of the District Court delivered on December 17, 1957 (Cr. A. 381/57).
Elihu Ziti was found guilty of breaking into a building and was sentenced to two years imprisonment and a fine of 10,000 sh. for which he had been given suspended sentence. The court found that the appellant had been convicted of a previous offence and that he had been given a suspended sentence and ordered to serve it.

In accordance with section 18 of the Penal Law (Mode of Punishment) Law, the court may impose conditional imprisonment on a person who has been convicted of a crime and sentenced to imprisonment, if the court is satisfied that the person is not likely to commit another offence which is a felony or one of the crimes mentioned in the law.

The court found that the appellant had been convicted of a crime and sentenced to imprisonment, and that he had been given a suspended sentence and ordered to serve it. The court found that the appellant had been convicted of a crime and sentenced to imprisonment, and that he had been given a suspended sentence and ordered to serve it.

The Attorney General's representative asked the court to grant the appellant a suspended sentence. The court found that the appellant had been convicted of a crime and sentenced to imprisonment, and that he had been given a suspended sentence and ordered to serve it.

attitude a breach of the conditions contained in the suspended sentence originally imposed on the offender; i.e. that offence which is either a felony or one of the crimes mentioned in the law.

If the president continued, the additional offence, committed within the period fixed by the court, should be completely different from that for which the suspended sentence was imposed, and yet not included in the list of crimes specified in the law.

From this, he continued, it is clear that section 18 (a) refers only to that offence which constitutes a breach of the terms of the conditional sentence.

After the penalty for this breach has been imposed then the conditional sentence no longer exists, having been converted into a sentence of imprisonment. In the case of the respondent, therefore, once his conditional sentence had been converted into a sentence of imprisonment, the law stipulates that in the event of any new offence being committed by a person who has been given a suspended sentence, the court may impose a suspended sentence on him for the offence prior to the present offence.

When Ziti was found guilty of the present offence (breaking into a building), the court found that he had been convicted of a crime and sentenced to imprisonment, and that he had been given a suspended sentence and ordered to serve it.

No Heads Habonim, Hillel

Habonim, the highly-successful Zionist youth movement, will celebrate its 30th anniversary next year. One of its founders, Mr. Joseph C. Gilbert, who is now on his seventh visit to Israel, recalled in an interview that it was not until 1928 that Habonim (the Builders) dedicated itself fully to Zionism with emphasis on halutzim.

The idea of founding a Jewish group along the lines of the Boy Scouts and Girl Guides was originated, said Mr. Gilbert, by Mr. Weisberg, an Oxford graduate, who is now Rotary Administrative Adviser in Israel.

Not long after Habonim got under way, Mr. Aaron turned up. He was a young man, but he had had it ever since. He was a young man, but he had had it ever since. He was a young man, but he had had it ever since.

Mr. Gilbert said the synagogue at Oxford would be demolished and a Foundation would be included in the Hillel House.

Habonim and Hillel, said Mr. Gilbert, occupy four or five days a week of his time. The rest of the time he puts in his fruitful international business.

He sees his youth work as "creative and a great source of satisfaction."

B.G. Reveals 'My Heart Was Full of Fear 10 Years Ago'

Jerusalem Post Reporter

TEL AVIV, Saturday. — Of all the challenges which this nation faced ten years ago, one remains, and will probably remain a basic issue until the final redemption: the call for our brothers from all over the world to absorb them and forge them into one nation. All the rest are history by now.

That was what the Prime Minister, Mr. Ben-Gurion, said in concluding his short address yesterday at the Tel Aviv Museum where the ceremony of the proclamation of the State of Israel was re-enacted in surroundings closely resembling the actual scene of proclamation ten years ago.

The hall was re-decorated by Mr. Otto Wallach who was responsible for the decoration in 1948. He followed the same plan and used materials of the same color as for the historic occasion. Two hundred and thirty guests were present.

In the audience, the differences were more pronounced, however close the organizers of the ceremony tried to keep it. The original session in 1948 was held in the Provisional Government building, but today it was in the Tel Aviv Museum.

Mr. Yitzhak Greenbaum, the first Minister of Interior, was with his colleagues yesterday, but ten years ago he was in Jerusalem, unable to get out of the city because of the curfew.

Three Die In Accidents

Jerusalem Post Staff

Three persons died and one was seriously injured in accidents on Friday and yesterday.

Six-year-old Abraham Melnik of Ma'ara Bet, near Ashdod, died of suffocation in his sleep on Friday. Police who were called to investigate reported the infant's blanket had sufficed him.

The body of Mrs. Victoria Nussimovitch of Givat Olga, Haifa, was found lifeless on the beach near her home yesterday morning. She had drowned. Police are investigating.

The body of Nadiv Harel, 65, was found yesterday morning on the shore between Buxton Hagall and Shavit Hagall. It is believed that he had followed an attack of epilepsy.

Shimon Miller, 22, of Nive Sha'anah, Haifa, was seriously injured in a traffic accident when his car collided with a lorry he was trying to overtake at the Hagiborim and Meir Streets intersection. He was taken to the Rambam hospital.

Two French military leaders, General de l'Armée de l'Air Valin, and General de Division Deszert, being received by the Director General of the Ministry of Defense, Mr. Shimon Peres, and the Commander of the Israel Air Force, Aluf Dan Tolkowsky.

Public meetings over the weekend featured speeches which outlined the tasks of the coming decade or else reminisced on the events surrounding the struggle for the establishment of the State ten years ago.

Speaking at a "Live newspaper" forum in Haifa on Friday night, the Minister of Labor, Mr. Mordechai Namir, declared that time was our greatest enemy and all our efforts for the further development of the country must be carried out in a spirit of utmost urgency. He singled out the continuation of large-scale immigration and the achieving of greater productivity, to encourage the export of Israeli products, as two of the foremost challenges that now face the country.

Hitherto unrevealed secrets of aliyah bet and of Hagana activities in the period preceding 1948 were related at a public meeting at the Mapai Yehuda Club in Tel Aviv on Friday night by Mr. Ephraim Dekel, head of Hagana Intelligence in the South, and by Mr. Josef Harel (Hamburg), commander of the "Pan ships" (illegal immigration operation from Rumania).

Mr. Dekel revealed that the Hagana had managed to obtain the British security forces' blacklist of Hagana leaders and also advance news of plans for a mass search for arms caches in the summer of 1948. He said that this foreknowledge enabled the Hagana to transfer most of its arms to new locations.

Mr. Harel told of the escape of the captains and American aliyah bet seamen, members of the crew of the Pan York and Pan Crescent, from their imprisonment in Cyprus by way of a makeshift tunnel and two Jewish fishing vessels. The two ships flooded the Cyprus camps with 15,000 immigrants, more than doubling the internee population.

Other speakers over the weekend included the Deputy Speaker of the Knesset, Mr. I. Rokach, who spoke in Tel Aviv; the Director-General of the Ministry of Defense, Mr. Shimon Peres, who addressed the Tel Aviv Commercial and Industrial Club on Friday; and a Beersheba aliyah bet, Mr. Yehuda Dekel, Minister of Police, Mr. Behor Shitrit, who spoke in Nassereth.

Two constables who arrived at seven o'clock made very little difference to the situation, although Egged had sufficient buses at hand to take several hundred passengers at once.

Alternative transport was offered by the "free" shubut service, if a passenger was willing to pay ILS (twice the normal) and was present here customers were being turned away.

It was not until 8.30, when an additional six constables arrived, that the situation of order was restored and buses were able to move out at fairly regular intervals.

In other parts of the city, holiday feeling was still in evidence. "Entertainment platforms" were set up in four quarters of the city, with performances including the police band, choirs, and drama and dance groups.

The rubble-strewn streets along the main routes of Thursday's parade had been cleaned with dispatch and by Friday morning Jerusalem had a clean city over which still hung the flags, banners and gay decorations of the official Independence Day festivities. Work was begun in patching up the streets damaged by the tanks, while the angle iron fences along the parade route were dismantled.

8-Year-Old Strangled

TEL AVIV, Saturday. — An eight-year-old boy was killed by the Tel Aviv Maccabi basketball team, near Tel Aviv, this afternoon.

Albert Mirshel, 8, a sweet vendor from Egypt, has been arrested on suspicion of having strangled Vital Sussman during an argument over the quantity of sweets Mirshel had sold the boy.

The body was found by a woman resident of the Ma'ara stretched out on Mirshel's bed and covered with a blanket. The woman began to scream hysterically and neighbors who rushed to the scene summoned the police.

Mirshel tried to escape from some youths who found him hiding. The crowd tried to lynch him, but he was saved by the police.

Vital Sussman had been given 50 pruta by his sister with which to buy sweets. The boy went to Mirshel's room, which served as his shop, and after being served, complained that he had been given insufficient sweets and asked the sweet-vendor to lynch him, but he was saved by the police.

Mirshel tried to throw the boy out of the shop and following an argument between the two, Mirshel began to beat the child.

In the heat of the argument, he allegedly strangled him and presumably tried to hide the body with the intention of disposing of it after darkness.

Police reinforcements have been sent to the Ma'ara to maintain order. (Times)

Asor Speakers Look Ahead and Back

Jerusalem Post Staff

Public meetings over the weekend featured speeches which outlined the tasks of the coming decade or else reminisced on the events surrounding the struggle for the establishment of the State ten years ago.

Speaking at a "Live newspaper" forum in Haifa on Friday night, the Minister of Labor, Mr. Mordechai Namir, declared that time was our greatest enemy and all our efforts for the further development of the country must be carried out in a spirit of utmost urgency. He singled out the continuation of large-scale immigration and the achieving of greater productivity, to encourage the export of Israeli products, as two of the foremost challenges that now face the country.

Hitherto unrevealed secrets of aliyah bet and of Hagana activities in the period preceding 1948 were related at a public meeting at the Mapai Yehuda Club in Tel Aviv on Friday night by Mr. Ephraim Dekel, head of Hagana Intelligence in the South, and by Mr. Josef Harel (Hamburg), commander of the "Pan ships" (illegal immigration operation from Rumania).

Mr. Dekel revealed that the Hagana had managed to obtain the British security forces' blacklist of Hagana leaders and also advance news of plans for a mass search for arms caches in the summer of 1948. He said that this foreknowledge enabled the Hagana to transfer most of its arms to new locations.

Mr. Harel told of the escape of the captains and American aliyah bet seamen, members of the crew of the Pan York and Pan Crescent, from their imprisonment in Cyprus by way of a makeshift tunnel and two Jewish fishing vessels. The two ships flooded the Cyprus camps with 15,000 immigrants, more than doubling the internee population.

Other speakers over the weekend included the Deputy Speaker of the Knesset, Mr. I. Rokach, who spoke in Tel Aviv; the Director-General of the Ministry of Defense, Mr. Shimon Peres, who addressed the Tel Aviv Commercial and Industrial Club on Friday; and a Beersheba aliyah bet, Mr. Yehuda Dekel, Minister of Police, Mr. Behor Shitrit, who spoke in Nassereth.

Two constables who arrived at seven o'clock made very little difference to the situation, although Egged had sufficient buses at hand to take several hundred passengers at once.

Alternative transport was offered by the "free" shubut service, if a passenger was willing to pay ILS (twice the normal) and was present here customers were being turned away.

It was not until 8.30, when an additional six constables arrived, that the situation of order was restored and buses were able to move out at fairly regular intervals.

U.N. to Dedicate Campus Today

Jerusalem Post Staff

The Hebrew University campus will be formally inaugurated at Jerusalem's Givat Ram this afternoon. The ceremony will be held in the Mona Bronfman Shockman amphitheatre.

In the evening, honorary degrees will be conferred by the University on President Ben-Zvi, Mr. Shmuel Yosef Agnon, the writer, and Prof. Selman A. Wakeman, Noble Prize winner and discoverer of streptomycin.

Prof. R. Masar, President of the University, told an extraordinary meeting of the University's Board of Governors on Friday that the new campus will probably be completed within the next three years. The home at Mt. Scopus had not been re-nounced, Prof. Masar declared, adding that he hoped the day was not far distant when the University would be functioning there as well as at Givat Ram, at Ein Karem where the Medical School was rising and at the Faculty of Agriculture at Rehovot.

A cheque for $200,000 for the premises of the School of Law, was handed over at the meeting by Dr. J. Sherman, International President of the Alpha Omega Fraternity of Lawyers, Dentists in the U.S. and Canada, to Prof. Masar.

IL20,000 in Grain Goes Up In Flames

APULIA, Saturday. — Damage estimated at IL20,000 was caused by a fire which leveled 3,000 sacks of wheat and barley near Kibbutz Hefzibah on Thursday afternoon. Nearly 1,000 settlers from the kibbutz fought the blaze.

Yesterday morning, Hagana firemen labored for nearly four hours to put out a large brush fire near the Shell Bridge. With the aid of three engines and much effort they prevented the flames from spreading to nearby workshops and saved a large number of railway sleepers stored in the 30 dunam field. Damage was negligible.

T.A. Maccabi Whack Betar, Top As Ramat Gan Gain Shock Win

Jerusalem Post Staff

Tel Aviv Maccabi regained the National League leadership yesterday after cracking in six goals against Tel Aviv Betar without reply, as Petah Tikva Hapoel surprisingly went down 2-0 to Ramat Gan Hapoel.

Maccabi also came back into the championship picture, winning their "derby" against Hapoel 3-1.

At the other end of the table, Petah Tikva Hapoel beat Jerusalem Hapoel 2-0, and moved up two places to third from bottom. Tel Aviv Betar, following their loss again prop up the table, with 11 points, with Kfar Saba Hapoel on the same mark.

The shock result of the day was Ramat Gan Hapoel's 3-0 victory over last week's leaders, Petah Tikva Hapoel. Ramat Gan converted a penalty, but not as ostentatiously as their rivals. Referee Rosenbaum did a good job and warned a number of players.

In the second half, Maccabi played a pure defensive game, saving a penalty, hitting the crossbar, but not as ostentatiously as their rivals. Referee Rosenbaum did a good job and warned a number of players.
